Equipment rental system

The application will allow a user to make available his material goods such as, for example, his top-of-the-range drill that he paid for expensively and wishes to make his property profitable.

1- First, the user will have to register by indicating the requested information such as his surname, first name, date of birth, an email address, a password.
   If he has been banned by an administrator, he will not be able to re-register until further notice.
   Thereafter, he will be advised to add additional information such as his full address, a telephone number and a profile picture.

2- Following his registration, he will be able to connect with his account and deposit his property(s) that they wish to rent from other individuals.

3- A user will be able to sort all the properties on the site by searching by name or to sort them by sections and/or categories.

4- When a user finds a property in the list, all users together, a rental begins between the owner of the property and the tenant for a given amount, a start date and an end date. This can be accompanied by a deposit if the owner decides to do so.

5- At the end of the rental, both users will be able to add a notice concerning the rental, confirming whether the rental went well.
   An average of the quotations will be made for all the rentals that have already been closed and will then be applied to the user concerned.
   This would increase the confidence of other users for future rentals if they went well.
   To improve communication between users (owners and tenants) around a property, they will be able to communicate by message.
   In cases of force majeure an admin will be able to banish a user if he does not respect the rules of good conduct.
